Project Description

Norton Commons is a traditional neighborhood development located east of Louisville, Kentucky. Life at Norton Commons is all about the classic conveniences of a mixed-use community. With shops and restaurants nearby, residents are able to spend more time enjoying their own neighborhood. Whether they choose to ride bikes, travel by car or take a leisurely stroll around their neighborhood, there is plenty to see and do within this peaceful retreat.

Norton Commons competes very favorably with other upscale neighborhoods in the area. Residents appreciate the conveniences, amenities and surrounding community that make their house a home.

Unique Requirements/Solutions

This traditional neighborhood development features many different classic styles of architecture. From Arts & Crafts and Cottage styles, to Colonial and Grecian Revival architecture, there is a style of house for every taste. Providing a quality product with a traditional appearance was critical in executing these architectural styles.
